"Sixth-I do not know anything about labor organizations, what their plans are or what benefits accrue to men belonging to them, because I know nothing of their inner workings, never having belonged to one of them. In a general sense, however, I will say that I believe in them, so long as they are properly conducted and the gentlemen at the head of them look into matters carefully, considerately and justly before they arrive at

"First-I deny that we changed the wage rates adopted by the Brotherhood of Operative Potters, and state that the same remain intact so far as we are concerned, to this day. Our company did offer a bonus for extraordinary work, but did so with the understanding that it was not to interfere in any way with any agreement that any man in our employ had with the Brotherhood or the manufacturers, or any one else.

"Fourth-One of the main arguments that such manufacturers as I have met have presented to me is that labor is hard to handle and that they believe that by a consolidation of the manufacturers they would make progress in this respect at will. > "Sixth-I do not know anything about labor organizations, what their plans are or what benefits accrue to men belonging to them, because I know nothing of their inner workings, never having belonged to one of them. In a general sense, however, I will say that I believe in them, so long as they are properly conducted and the gentlemen at the head of them look into matters carefully, considerately and justly before they arrive at

THE PRINCE. ENGLAND ITINERARY OF

Among Places to Be Visited Are Chicago, Milwaukee, Niagara Falls and Boston.

Berlin, Jan. 21 -Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia, while in the United States, will visit Chicago, Milwaukes, which has been cabled here by Dr. Von Holleben, the German ambassaproved by them. Its general outline is as follows:

Feb. 22-The arrival of the prince

Feb. 23—The official welcome by the representatives of President Roosevelt, the governor of the state York city.

Feb. 24-The launching of the yacht at Shoters island and a dinner to be given by Prince Henry.

to be given by the mayor of New York, and, if consistent with these functions, a reception by the Press

Feb. 26—The prince and his party will proceed to Washington, where the prince will reside at the German President Roosevelt and be entertained at dinner at the White House.

Feb. 27-Official receptions and visis and a dinner at the German embassy. Feb. 28—The prince and his party will start for Chicago.

The apportionment of the prince's time between Chicago, Milwaukee. Niagara Falls and Boston has not yet been precisely made. In fact, although the foregoing is the official plan as it stood yesterday, any part of it may subsequently be modified. Cablegrams on the subject of the program were still being exchanged.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Following the conference of Mr. Wallace Downey, the member of the firm building the emperor's yacht, and President Roosevelt, the announce ment was made that the launch would take place on Tuesday, Feb. 25, as the tide conditions then would be good. The Berlin dispatch sets that date, the 24th as the date for the launch. The program arranged here contemplated two visits of the prince Washington, instead of one, as proposed in the Berlin dispatch. which, if carried out, will result in some disarrangement of the social festivities provided for the prince's entertainment.

$350,000 Engaged-Stock Market Continued In Rut of Dullness, Monday.

New York, Jan. 21.-Last week's depressing factors in the stock market were fortified Monday by the engagement of $350,000 in gold for export. This was practically the only new development in the stock market, which continued in its rut of dullness and professionalism. The outside public positively refuses to take any part in the market. Prices were any part in the market. Prices were generally lower on the day, though not as low as they were during the session. The strength of Saturday's bank statement had as little influence Monday as it had after its publication on Saturday. Bankers are generally disposed to keep their reserves well in hand and to wait for foreign requirements to define them selves better. Then continued discussion of the affairs of the trolley syndicate and occasional changes in the plans of the adjustment committee, keep up the disturbing effect of that episode. Stole Rich Man's Son James Southwick is the name of a twelve-year-old Montana boy who early in November conceived and executed the idea of kidnaping the six-yearold son of a prominent merchant in Great Falls and holding him for a $1,500 ransom. His victim was Theodore Ryan, son of W. G. Ryan.

One day toward dusk Mrs. Ryan was anxiously awaiting the return of her son from school, when there was a ring at the doorbell. On the knob was this letter:

"Mr. G. W. Ryan-We have stolen your child, and we want $1,500 ransom or we shall ram glass into his eyes and cut off his hands. Put the money in a stout leather bag and you come in a single seated buggy, with a red lantern in front. Lay the money on the left side of the Missouri river bridge at the west end at 9:15 in the evening. This money must be in gold. If we see any one in

Elmendorf strolled into the room and sat down in a large chair, with a sigh. Then, perceiving that Brenda was standing, he rose hastily, very much to the young lady's surprise.

"By the way," said the captain, "while we're waiting I want to ask you about Mr. Alden. We've sent word to his office, but he isn't there. They don't know where he's gone. You knew him quite well, didn't you? I noticed how quick you recognized his handwriting."

"Yes," said Brenda, "I knew him quite well."

"And you knew Miss Miller?" "I never saw her," replied Brenda after a moment's hesitation.

"Why, Miss Williams," exclaimed Neale, with a grotesque attempt to speak softly, "I thought you said you were a friend of hers!" "I hardly knew what to say to the policemen at the door," replied Brenda calmly. "I was very anxious to get in. And let me add that I am at present very anxious to get out." "Just one minute," said the captain.

"You knew Mr. Alden. Now, did you happen to know of any young woman that he was particularly sweet on?" "I have heard," replied Brenda slowly, "that he was at one time engaged to a girl who had a great deal of money and some social standing, but I understand that that has been broken off. It can have no possible bearing upon this crime, which was plainly the work of a thief." "You're thinking of the money," said

Neale, caressing his projecting chin with a great, square hand, "the money Alden is alleged to have put into the Metter. It can't be found, and that's a fact."

"Is alleged to have put into the letter?" exclaimed Brenda. "Why, he says so himself."

"Yes," responded the captain, "that's what he says."

An interval of silence followed. Brenda was leaning forward, her right hand resting on the table, her eyes intent upon the officer's face. They were gray eyes ordinarily, and their expression spoke of the cultivated self restraint by which the natural emotions are held in check. On this occasion, however, they seemed to be of a dark blue and to emit a light which even

Extracts from their Letters.

Rev. W. N. Edwards, Baptist minister 109 Trinity Place, Buffalo, N. At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond endurance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. I feel it a duty to fel-low sufferers to recommend it."

Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minis ter, Albion, Wis., writes:

"My wife was terribly afflicted with procruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure."

"I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled medical skill for twenty-five years. Dr. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold."

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

" For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. 1 used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding celief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me.

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 192 Dunn avenue. Toronto, Ont., writes:

Ten years ago eczema began on my ears and spread over my head and hands. During that time I was a great sufferer. I tried many remedies, and some of the best physiclans-specialists on skin diseases-treated ene. The first box of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave much relief and five boxes completely cured me. CAPTAIN NEALE RESENTS AN IMPUTA-which had fallen to the floor. "Wait a minute!" exclaimed Neale. "You're Alden-Clarence M. Alden?"

"Well, I want to talk to you. Wait! If you go down there, you can't get in nor find out anything; that's orders. You'll get more information here."

"Is she living?" demanded Alden. "Yes," replied the captain. "If she dies, I shall know of it within five minutes, and that's quicker than you could learn of it anywhere else. Let me manage this. I'll take good care of you. I'll see that you get every word of news. Meanwhile let's get down to business. You sent that note to her?"

"I did." "With $500 in it?"

"Yes." "When?

"At ten minutes after 2 I sent it by John Robinson, a clerk in my office." "Where is he now?"

"I don't know," answered Alden. "I didn't wait for him to come back. Now, answer my question. Who did this thing?"

Neale spread his hands abroad with from ministers, physicians and lawyers that a grotesque gesture intended to disany other medicine in the world. It is en claim the possession of the information.

"We're all at sea." he said. "Somebody got into this room and stabbed the girl with this knife."

He suddenly lifted a newspaper that had lain on the table and disclosed the weapon beneath it. The long blade was open and visibly stained with blood. Brenda's hand had been within six inches of it, and at the sight she started back with such alarm that Dr. Blair stretched out his arm to support her. She did not fall, however, but stood rigid, staring at Alden. The color rushed to his face. He put up his hand and pushed back the tangle of light brown hair that was lying moist upon his forehead.

"Recognize it?" said Neale, with his mirthless grin.

"It is mine," replied Alden in the same repressed and steady tone that he had used throughout this scene. "I gave it to her." "When?"

"A few days ago," said Alden. "I don't exactly remember."

"Queer present," rejoined the cap-

"And now," said he, "how long have you known this young lady?" He waved his hand toward Brenda.

"I have known Miss Maclane a long time," said Alden. "Why do you ask?"

"Miss Maclane, eh?" said the captain, elevating the strange tufts of parti colored hair that were his eyebrows. "I understood that her name was Williams."

"I have done an absurdly foolish thing," said Brenda, addressing Alden. Sold in East Liverpool by Charles "I was afraid my name would be published, and so I tried to deceive these

"Excuse me for a minute," said Neale, and, accompanied by the man who had just appeared upon the scene, he stepped out into the hall.

Brenda turned to Dr. Blair, who was leaning against the mantelpiece.

If there had been an eye upon Detective Elmendorf at this moment, it would have noted that he was much interested, but no one was looking at him. He himself was observing Brenda closely.

Miller, and you neglected Miss Maclane, and she wouldn't stand for it. But by that time you were so involved with Miss Miller that you couldn't break away. So what did you do? Why, you wrote her a note telling a fairy story about a lot of money, knowing that the note would be found and would make the case look like robbery. You told her how busy you were, and five minutes afterward you quit work and came up town. You had a key to this house; you came here"-

A policeman entered from the hall. "That man is under arrest," said Neale. "Take him in."

I stood it as long as I could, and was about to give up and take a rest when I had a collapse, and was taken very ill. I had the best medical advice, but did not seem to gain much. In fact, I appeared to go from bad to worse. I was troubled terri-bly with insomnia, had no appetite, and couldn't think-in fact, I was just about a total wreck. I took various medicines for nearly a year, and made up my mind that nothing would help me, when one day my physician said he wanted me to try "Blood Wine," and explained to me all about it. "By the way," said the captain, "while we're waiting I want to ask you about Mr. Alden. We've sent word to his office, but he isn't there. They don't know where he's gone. You knew him quite well, didn't you? I noticed how quick you recognized his hand-

"Yes," said Brenda, "I knew him quite well."

"And you knew Miss Miller?"

"I never saw her," replied Brenda after a moment's hesitation.

"Why, Miss Williams," exclaimed Neale, with a grotesque attempt to speak softly, "I thought you said you were a friend of hers!"

"I hardly knew what to say to the policemen at the door," replied Brenda calmly. "I was very anxious to get in. And let me add that I am at present very anxious to get out."

"Just one minute," said the captain. "You knew Mr. Alden. Now, did you him. happen to know of any young woman that he was particularly sweet on?"

"I have heard," replied Brenda slow-Ty, "that he was at one time engaged to a girl who had a great deal of money and some social standing, but I understand that that has been broken off. It can have no possible bearing upon this crime, which was plainly the work of a thief."

"You're thinking of the money," said Neale, caressing his projecting chin with a great, square hand, "the money Alden is alleged to have put into the Hetter. It can't be found, and that's a fact."

"Is alleged to have put into the letter?" exclaimed Brenda. "Why, he says so himself."

"Yes," responded the captain, "that's what he says."

An interval of silence followed. Brenda was leaning forward, her right hand resting on the table, her eyes intent upon the officer's face. They were gray eyes ordinarily, and their expression spoke of the cultivated self restraint by which the natural emotions are held in check. On this occasion, however, they seemed to be of a dark blue and to emit a light which even

At times there was bleeding and the itching and burning was beyond urance. The results I have derived from Dr. Chase's Ointment have been magical and the benefits lasting. Rev. J. N. Van Natter, Methodist minis ter, Albion, Wis., writes:

"My wife was terribly afflicted with protruding piles and contemplated a surgical operation when her notice was drawn to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a cure."

"I then used it for an unsightly and troublesome skin affection, which had baffled skill for twenty-five years. Dr. Chase's Ointment thoroughly cured it. For piles and skin disease it is worth its weight in gold."

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:

For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am entirely cured. The itching is all gone. 1 have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me.

Rev. Chas. Fish, Methodist minister, 192 Dunn avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes:

CHAPTER III. CAPTAIN NEALE RESENTS AN IMPUTA-

OME one put a key into the lock of the front door, and the faint sound of it was distinctly audible in that room. The growling voice of a policeman in the hall said:

"Hold on! You can't go"-And seemingly in the same instant a young man appeared upon the threshold of the room. He took two steps forward and then halted, the others facing him.

He was one of those men whose tremendous vital energy declares itself unmistakably. As he stood there, perfeetly still, the power within him seemed to affect the air. It was as when one feels the tension of an engine that is tinued the doctor. "No one knows who widely known man Neale softly whisat rest, but ready. "If I know," she answered, "it was because I wanted to help her, because I couldn't have her die like this. I"-"Where is she?"

"They have taken her to a hospital-St. Winifred's."

The young man snatched up his hat, which had fallen to the floor. "Wait a minute!" exclaimed Neale.

"You're Alden-Clarence M. Alden?" "Well, I want to talk to you. Wait!

If you go down there, you can't get in nor find out anything; that's orders. You'll get more information here."

"Is she living?" demanded Alden. "Yes," replied the captain. "If she dies, I shall know of it within five minutes, and that's quicker than you could learn of it anywhere else. Let me manage this. I'll take good care of you. I'll see that you get every word of news. Meanwhile let's get down to business. You sent that note to her?"

"I did." "With $500 in it?" "Yes."

"When?"

"At ten minutes after 2 I sent it by John Robinson, a clerk in my office." "Where is he now?"

"I don't know," answered Alden. "I didn't wait for him to come back. tective Elmendorf at this moment, it Now, answer my question. Who did this thing?"

Brenda's hand had been within six inches of it, and at the sight she started back with such alarm that Dr. Blair stretched out his arm to support her. She did not fall, how-

> "Recognize it?" said Neale, with his mirthless grin.

"It is mine," replied Alden in the same repressed and steady tone that he had used throughout this scene. "I gave it to her."

"When?" "A few days ago," said Alden. "I don't exactly remember."

"Queer present," rejoined the captain, "for a girl."

"She was cutting some pictures out of the magazines," replied Alden. "I happened to have the knife in my pocket. She used it, and I didn't take

The captain slowly nodded his head, as one who has reached the end of a topic and is preparing for the next. "And now," said he, "how long have you known this young lady?" He waved his hand toward Brenda. "I have known Miss Maclane a long time," said Alden. "Why do you ask?" "Miss Maclane, eh?" said the captain, elevating the strange tufts of gave the note to Elsie"parti colored hair that were his eyebrows. "I understood that her name was Williams."

"I have done an absurdly foolish thing," said Brenda, addressing Alden. "I was afraid my name would be published, and so I tried to deceive these people."

"Big mistake," rejoined Captain Neale, shaking his bead solemnly. "This whole story will have to come out, and if the facts are known to the police at the start it will come out straight; otherwise there's no telling 'stopped at Miss Miller's door, knocked, what the reporters will do with it."

"There is no reason whatever," said Alden, "why Miss Maclane should be brought into this affair."

"There isn't, eh?" said the captain. "Why is she here? Sympathy for a woman that she says she never saw? of it. And now, Mr. Alden, let me tell No; I guess we'll have to have something better."

"I'll have to hold her as a witness." "You mean that you will put me un der arrest?" demanded Brenda, her face and even her lips absolutely color-

"I'll have to," said the captain. "And suppose that I answer all your questions now?" she asked. Neale struck his hand down upon the table.

"You can go home just as soon as you've done it," he declared, and at that moment a man in plain clothes, but with the unmistakable stamp of the police upon him, entered the room and saluted his superior.

"Excuse me for a minute," said Neale, and, accompanied by the man who had just appeared upon the scene, he stepped out into the hall.

Brenda turned to Dr. Blair, who was leaning against the mantelpiece.

"Dr. Blair," she whispered, "you will not say that it was I whom you saw leaving this house?" "No." replied the physician slowly;

"I will not." "What does this mean?" demanded

Dr. Blair regarded Alden steadily for some seconds before he said with that

If there had been an eye upon Dewould have noted that he was much interested, but no one was looking at him. He himself was observing Brenda closely.

Alden had begun to pace the floor, his hand upon his forehead.

"I can't stay here any longer," he said suddenly. "I must see Elsie. I must know- Jack! How came you here?"

The question was addressed to a Neale. He was in his normal state a eyes that the Greeks admired (for women) and a broad forehead above them, but in this moment his face was distorted with excitement and striped with perspiration that trickled from his forehead. The total effect was somewhat grotesque, especially be-deal of money. If I should tell it to cause the man was inclined to fatness and was a trifle conspicuous in the matter of attire.

"This is dreadful, dreadful!" he cried. "I can't believe it."

"You're Mr. Robinson, who carried the note to Miss Miller," said Neale. "That's why I sent a man to your house."

"Yes," said Robinson, turning to Alden. "I didn't go back to the office immediately. I went over to the place where I live. I was just going down town again when a policeman met me at the door."

"Did you know what was in that note?" asked Neale. "I knew there was money," was the reply, "but I didn't know how much. It was sealed when Mr. Alden gave it to me. He said there was money in it. That was why I brought it instead of giving it to a messenger boy."

"What happened here?" the captain "Nothing," answered Robinson. "I

"To whom?" said the captain.

"To Miss Miller; that is what I said. I gave the note to Miss Miller, and she opened it by the window. I didn't see any money. I wasn't in the room ten seconds-merely long enough to ask if there was any answer, and she said no. Then I went away."

"Meet anybody?"

"The servant who let me in was passing through the hall as I went out."

'That's important," said the captain. "It fixes you all right. The servant asked a question and got an answer. Then she went along down stairs."

"Fixes me!" gasped Robinson. "Is anybody crazy enough to think I did this?"

"No," said the captain. "You're out you that I've just had a report from the hospital. The girl is alive, and the doc-"If you don't get it," said Alden, tors think she has a fair chance."

engagement broken off?" "This afternoon," answered Brenda firmly. "I went down to Mr. Alden's office at half past 1. I had expected to see him last evening, but"- "He didn't come?"

Brenda inclined her head. "I went to his office," she said, "and in the conversation between us there I released him from his engagement." "That must have been a hard blow for you, Mr. Alden," said the captain. "What do you mean?" demanded Alden. "If you have the delicacy to appreciate my feeling"-'I was thinking especially about your business," said Neale. "I'm told your firm is in the last ditch, and that your engagement to Duncan Maclane's daughter is about all that holds you up. That's what my man told me just now."

"He told you a lie," said Alden, but with the same monotonous tone, as if his utterance was mechanical and his mind upon another matter. "My affairs were never before so prosperous as they are today."

"That won't do," responded the captain. "I have positive proof"-"You knew nothing about it," said

Alden. "I have other interests than those of my firm."

"What other interests?" "I decline to answer."

"Where did you go when you left your office after sending that note?" "I will not tell you."

"Why not?" queried the captain in his most persuasive tone. "Oh, peryoung man who entered with Captain haps you don't know these other gentlemen. They'll step into the hall or rather handsome fellow, with the ox out on to the balcony, I've no doubt." "It will make no difference" replied

"Captain Neale," said Alden, "this is a business secret that is worth a good any man, he could force payment for his silence."

"You don't mean to say that I'd do a thing like that?" demanded Neale. "I have no wish to offend," said Alden. "but you want the truth, and you shall have it. Your reputation, like that of many another man high up in the department, is bad-as bad as it can be. Remembering that this business matter involves others than myself. I won't trust you with a hint of it. That is my last word on that subject." Neale's face turned red and white in strange, irregular spots. "Now hear a word from me," he said. "I've been looking you up. You are a ruined man. You were engaged to this girl, and it was all that saved you. But you couldn't be honest even with her. You made love to this Elsie

Miller, and you neglected Miss Maclane, and she wouldn't stand for it. But by that time you were so involved with Miss Miller that you couldn't break away. So what did you do? Why, you wrote her a note telling a fairy story about a lot of money, knowing that the note would be found and would make the case look like robbery. You told her how busy you were, and five minutes afterward you quit work and came up town. You had a key to this house; you came here"-

"Do you mean to accuse me of this?" The words came from between Alien's teeth, and he strode toward Neale, who put the table between them and drew his revolver.

"Wallace!" he called. A policeman entered from the hall. "That man is under arrest," said

Neale. "Take him in."

"This is monstrous," said Alden, but he spoke coolly. "You shall answer for it." "We'll talk about that later," rejoined the captain. "You go with that man." Brenda crossed the room quickly and took Alden's hand.

"I will do everything that I can for you," she said, "and for her." "You're coming along, too," said

Neale. "No; I'll stand by what I said. Alden opened his mouth to speak and then closed it again. He turned and went out of the room with the policeman, Brenda following immediately

The unfortunate king who divulged the secrets of Zeus was represented chained to the rock starying while the fruit laden boughs waved just beyond his reach. It was a painful picture, quite out of keeping with all else in the room, and Elmendorf regarded it curiously. A few lines, telling the legend, were printed below, and the detective read them. "Well, he looks it," he said, glancing up at the face of Tantalus. "And, by the way, Neale, you don't think Alden did this thing, do you?"

"Not on your life!" said the captain. "The case is perfectly plain. It may be that I didn't do the smart thing." Elmendorf turned away. "Arresting a man for murder just be

I stood it as long as I could, and was about to give up and take a rest when I had a collapse, and was taken very ill. I had the best medical advice, but did not seem to gain much. In fact, I appeared to go from bad to worse. I was troubled terribly with insomnia, had no appetite, and couldn't think-in fact, I was just about a total wreck. I took various medicines for nearly a year, and made up my mind that nothing would help me, when one day my physician said he wanted me to try "Blood Wine," and explained to me all about it. I obeyed him, but didn't seem to improve at first. I took nearly a bottle, when all at once I began to feel better. I continued its use, and to-day I am a well woman. You see for yourself that I am the picture of health and I will solemnly swear that "Bloed Wine" made me what I am. Several members of the family have used it and my husband, who has been on the verge of nervous prostration, is now fully recovered. We cannot speak too highly of this grand preparation, and I should be glad to cor-respond with anyone who would like to know more about it. I hope some one will be benefited by my testimonial."

IF PEACE. STATUE EMBLES

Friends Called edly-Speech by Judge Sanders. Senator, In Reply, Referred Touchingly to the Late President.

Unexpect.

Cleveland, Jan. 21.-Because of his efforts to bring about more amicable relations between labor and capital and because he was conspicuous in the recent conference in New York between a number of prominent capitalists and labor leaders, a hundred or more of his friends in this city thought it fitting to give the senator some reminder of that occasion and its purpose. Accordingly, in Senator Hanna's beautiful home on Lake ave nue, the gentlemen who instigated the movement gathered and arranged that the senator should be present without knowing the purpose of the gathering. The article that will serve as constant reminder of the senator's efforts for a better understanding between labor and capital is a fine statue emblematic of "Peace."

Speech by Judge Sanders.

The presentation was made the oc casion of a speech by Judge Sanders, of the law firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey. The substance of his speech was in part:

formally given to the senator. Senator Hanna was visibly affected when he started to reply to Judge Fifteen Injured In Belfast, by Walls Sanders' speech. The substance of his speech was in part:

He declared that whatever work he ever undertook he had but one purpose in view, the betterment of all the people of his own community and of the country at large. He said that his greatest comfort was to be able to return to his home in this city and be received with kindness by his neighbors, because it inspired him to continue the work that he has been doing. Regarding the campaign of 1896. Senator Hanna disclaimed any personal credit for what had been accomplished. He said it was only because an emergency was before the country that such an outcome resulted and that the great mass of voters, irrespective of political affiliation, worked to save their country. "At the head of such an army," said Senator Hanna, "any man with the proper endeavor could have been successful. It needed only the application.'

Its action upon the system is unlike any other external remedy, as it never drives the disease to take effect on the Internal Organs. Its properties, when applied, go directly to the diseased part, and, as it passes into the circulation, it separates all the poisonous and corrupt humors, and attracts them through the perspiring vessels to the surface, and entirely eradicates the disease from the system. It is simply asked that the afflicted will TRY ONE BOX, the use of which will convince the most skeptical.

It is warranted to cure the worst cases of corrupt humors and sores after all other remedies have failed or money refunded.

Friends Called edly-Speech by Judge Sanders Senator, In Reply, Referred Touch ingly to the Late President.

Cleveland, Jan. 21.-Because of his efforts to bring about more amicable relations between labor and capital and because he was conspicuous in the recent conference in New York be tween a number of prominent capital ists and labor leaders, a hundred or more of his friends in this city thought it fitting to give the senator some reminder of that occasion and its purpose. Accordingly, in Senator Hanna's beautiful home on Lake ave nue, the gentlemen who instigated the movement gathered and arranged that the senator should be present without knowing the purpose of the gathering. The article that will serve as constant reminder of the senator's efforts for a better understanding between abor and capital is a fine statue emblematic of "Peace."

FAMILY BLESSING FOR 25 CENTS.

THIS SALVE IS A COMPOUND OF

ARNICA and CALENDULA, WITH MANY VEGETABLE EXTRACTS AND BALSAMS ADDED,

EACH OF WHICH HAS LONG BEEN CELEBRATED FOR Subduing Pain and Inflammation, with active and most wonderful Healing Virtues.

Its action upon the system is unlike any other external remedy, as it never drives the disease to take effect on the Internal Organs. Its properties, when applied, go directly to the diseased part, and, as it passes into the circulation, it separates all the poisonous and corrupt humors, and attracts them through the perspiring vessels to the surface, and entirely eradicates the disease from the system. It is simply asked that the afflicted will TRY ONE BOX, the use of which will convince the most skeptical.

It is warranted to cure the worst cases of corrupt humors and sores after all other remedies have failed or money refunded.

Old Sores, Eczema, Chilblains, Burns, Piles, Ulcers, Corns, Caked Breasts, Cuts, Fistula, Scrofula, Bunions, Sore Nipples, Bruises, Chafes, Salt Rheum, Frosted Feet, Scalds, Boils, Galls, etc.

Ask your Druggist for Page's Climax Salve and take no other. If he has not got it or will not get it for you, it will be sent by mail on receipt of 25 Cents a Box or 5 boxes for $1.00. Sold by all first class Druggists.

Sherman T. Herbert Announced As a Candidate For Re-Election.

Election Next Sunday-The election A FAITHFUL CITY OFFICIAL

Connected With the Leading Financial Institutions of This City for Years. Began As a Messenger Boy in the Potters' National Bank.

The announcement of Sherman T Herbert, the present popular and efficient city treasurer, as a candidate for re-election is made today.

There is perhaps no one better known to the people, or one better qualified to handle the financial affairs of the city than "Sherm" Herbert, as he is familiarly known.

From his early boyhood he has been constantly and prominently connected with different financial institutions here in our midst. Beginning as messenger in the Potters' National bank, he was soon promoted, as a reward to long remember this important annito the position of teller, which position he held until the people of our city called him to act as custodian of their funds.

Mr. Herbert has always been prominently identified with the Republican party, and not only has he been a prominent figure in the affairs of the city, but his labors have been extended to the county and state as well. The faithful duties discharged by Mr. Herbert in the past certainly entitles him to ask and expect the vote and absence and pounced down on him support of every Republican in the

Mascots Used by Gamblers,

Habitual gamblers are perhaps the most superstitious persons in the world. They invariably carry little portable mascots in their pockets, and it would be impossible to persuade them to enter into a game of chance if, by some inadvertence, their mascots were not with them. Lumps of lead, coins, snake rattles, locks of hair, cauls, bits of bone, hairpins-a pile of these things would be shown if the players in any stiff poker game were required to reveal their mascots.

And each amulet has a story connected with it. A bullet, for instance, which one man carries was extracted from the brain of a woman who killed herself on his account. A gold hairpin that is the mascot of a broker fell from a lady's hair in a theater sele. He culminated in a marriage. A lawyer on the day the man was hanged. The mascot catalogue could be continued thus indefinitely.-Philadelphia Record. send it to the printers at once.

FOR CITY TREASURER

Sherman T. Herbert Announced As a Candidate For Candidate Will Ride Goat-The Roy-Re-Election.

A FAITHFUL CITY OFFICIAL

Connected With the Leading Financial Institutions of This City for Years. Began As a Messenger Boy in the Potters' National Bank.

The announcement of Sherman T. Herbert, the present popular and efficient city treasurer, as a candidate for re-election is made today.

There is perhaps no one better known to the people, or one better qualified to handle the financial affairs of the city than "Sherm" Herbert, as he is familiarly known.

From his early boyhood he has been constantly and prominently connected with different financial institutions here in our midst. Beginning as messenger in the Potters' National bank, he was soon promoted, as a reward for his faithful, conscientious labors, to the position of teller, which position he held until the people of our city called him to act as custodian of their funds.

Mr. Herbert has always been prominently identified with the Republican prominent figure in the affairs of the city, but his labors have been extended to the county and state as well. The faithful duties discharged by Mr. Herbert in the past certainly entitles him to ask and expect the vote and support of every Republican in the

From a Staff Correspondent. Columbus, January 21. - Senator Archer, of Belmont, is preparing to dump a large grist of bills into the legislative hopper. In a few days he One bill will regulate the seasons. making them somewhat similar to those provided for under the old laws which were repealed two years ago, Another will provide for a license of $25 for non-resident hunters and the imposition of a gun tax of $1 on residents, landowners being exempt from this tax. New restrictions are also placed on fishing in the waters of The state fish and game commission hired an expert to draft these bills and it is thought they will meet with general satisfaction. The present game laws are very defective and much in need of revision.

The senator has another bill which will attract great attention. It is one establishing a board of examiners to regulate the occupation of a barber and to prevent the spreading of contagious diseases. The board is to consist of three members, who will be appointed by the governor and who sum of $5,000. Each member will be allowed $5 per diem for expenses. One member will be appointed upon recbarbers, another will be appointed upon recommendation of the journeybe a regular practising physician.

Each member shall serve for three years, except in the case of the first board, whose members shall serve one, two and three years, respectively. The board shall elect a president, secretary and treasurer and must file a report on November 15 of each year and business transacted during the fiscal year. All money in excess of $500 remaining in the treasury at the close of the year shall be turned over to the state. The board will hold public examination four times in each year. Within 90 days after the passage of the act, every barber shall file an affidavit with the board, setting forth his name, residence and length of time he has served in the occupation. AGAINST PRICE AGREEMENTS

The Offer of the Union, He Says, Was With the Understanding That It Should Not Interfere With the N. B. of O. P. Rates.

A. M. Moreland, president of the Union Potteries company, writes to the News Review as follows concerning the new schedule proposed by his company:

"First-I deny that we changed the wage rates adopted by the Brotherhood of Operative Potters, and state that the same remain intact so far as we are concerned, to this day. Our company did offer a bonus for extraordinary work, but did so with the understanding that it was not to interfere in any way with any agreement that any man in our employ had with the Brotherhood or the manufacturers,

"Second-I never met Mr. Hughes, and, therefore, when he reports my motives he does so entirely upon as-

"Third-The offering of the bonus is not a part of any schemes of any sort. I am now opposed and I have always been opposed to a combination of manufacturing potters. I admit having had some dealings with certain manufacturers for the benefit and on account of others, but none on my own account. I have always said that I would not join such a consolidation or trust, and will not. I did not attend the meeting of the manufacturers Stewart, late of Salem township, and I was invited. I said that I did not want to have anything to do with them. I do not believe in price agree ments, and said so at the time. They are not only wrong in principle, but they are illegal. I deny the allegations that I presented a plan for a of the four minor children of Mary combination or trust to the manufacturers when they met in Pittsburg recently. I had no plans then; I have none now. Mr. F. W. Fowler, our vice president, is in sympathy with the manufacturers, and has, from time to time, presented their views to me; also some schemes of consolidation, to all of which I have replied that I did not want to have anything to do with them; that if any combination does go through they must provide funds for the purchase of my stock. The last time a proposition was presented to me, I said that I would not take their plants into the Union Potteries com> better ones. "Fourth-One of the main arguments that such manufacturers as I have met have presented to me is that labor is hard to handle and that they believe that by a consolidation of the manufacturers they would make progress in this respect at will. This looks feasible and especially so in the light of what has happened in other combinations and what is happening now by a conspiracy between the manufacturers and the labor organizations, as reported in your paper.

"Fifth-I do not want any one to understand me to say that there would not be great profits to the manufacturers by selling out at this time to a combination, because I do not know if any one in the steel or glass business, or other enterprise, who merged his or their business with a general combination, who did not get from two to five times what his plant was worth, and it is fair to assume that the pottery manufacturers can do as well, perhaps better.

"Sixth-I do not know anything about labor organizations, what their plans are or what benefits accrue to men belonging to them, because I know nothing of their inner workings, never having belonged to one of them. In a general sense, however, I will say that I believe in them, so long as they are properly conducted and the gentlemen at the head of them look into matters carefully, considerately and justly before they arrive at

The gunboat General Pinzon has arrived here, bringing troops from Bocas del Toro and Cocle. The troops were hurried to Panama.

The revolutionary eet consisted of the steamers Padilla, Darien and Gaitan. They tried to force a landing off Saoana.

The first named steamer was seized by General Alban, and the other two have been chartered by the Colombian government.

As this dispatch is sent three shots have just passed over the Chiquito and she has answered with several shots. They fall close to the Padilla, which is seen to be retiring.

The guns at Las Bovedas are also firing at the rebel ships. The government forces are throwing up entrenchments. The United States cruiser Philadelphia is close to the scene of the fighting. Panama, Jan. 20.—The Lautaro is on fire. The revolutionary gunboat Darien, as this dispatch is written, is firing has ceased. It is impossible to locate the revolutionary gunboats Padilla and Gaitan.

The crew of the Philadelphia are assisting to put out the fire on board the Lautaro.

It is rumored here on shore that the firing of the Lautaro is a result of treason.

The Lautaro has just sunk. It is reported here that her crew rebelled. The revolutionary gunboat Padilla surprised the Lautaro at the opening of the fight this morning and began shooting at close range. Many men on board the Lautaro were killed. A gasolene launch has just left here to obtain details of the fighting. The slow movements of the Padilla, which are noticeable from the shore, lead to the belief that she has been damaged.

General Carlos Alban, the imilitary governor of Panama, was killed during the fighting this morning.

There is a very general agreement pot-hunting; lawyers say it can be eas- ments will not be made. ily evaded, and fish and game wardens testify that it is evaded and is ineffective. The state has gone to considerable expense to stock streams and lakes with fish and to find a home in the woods for Mongolian pheasants and other game birds. It is simple folly to allow these praiseworthy efforts to come to naught for lack of an efficient law. The legislature may have weightier matters before it, but it should not ignore a question in which a vast number of citizens in all portions of the state are deeply interested.

The congressional committee on the revision of the laws has decided that the United States "is" not "are," and the singular form will be used in the new edition of the federal statutes soon to be published. We fought a great war not so long ago to maintain the principle that the United States "is" a nation, one and indivisible. It is time the grammarians, as well as other people, fell in line with the re-

It is not too early to start to create interest in the coming Republican primaries. In Columbiana county the Republican who is nominated is as good as elected. It is therefore of prime importance that every effort be put forth to see that the best men are nominated. The race is going to be an interesting one. There are no weaklings in the field.

A contest for supremacy in the Democratic party in Ohio is now in progress and has been for some time, if surface indications are trustworthy. The principals in it are Tom L. Johnson and John R. McLean. Whichever one comes out ahead, it is Democrats, and not Republicans who will have reason to view the situation with alarm.

"The sending of a special ambassador by the president to represent this country at the coronation of King Edward VII, is an indication that we are drifting toward royalty," said William J. Bryan in an interview. Evidence The production of "The Power Behind that Bryan is drifting toward dementia the Throne" is costly and elaborate, could more reasonably be argued from and it is promised that the play will be such a foolish utterance.

OME one put a key into the lock of the front door, and the faint sound of it was distinctly audible in that room. The growling voice of a policeman in the hall said:

"Hold on! You can't go"-And seemingly in the same instant a young man appeared upon the threshold of the room. He took two steps forward and then halted, the others facing him.

He was one of those men whose tremendous vital energy declares itself unmistakably. As he stood there, perfeetly still, the power within him seemed to affect the air. He waved his hand toward Brenda. "I have known Miss Maclane a long time," said Alden. "Why do you ask?" "Miss Maclane, eh?" said the captain, elevating the strange tufts of parti colored hair that were his eyebrows. "I understood that her name was Williams."

"I have done an absurdly foolish thing," said Brenda, addressing Alden. "I was afraid my name would be published, and so I tried to deceive these people.'

"Big mistake," rejoined Captain Neale, shaking his head solemnly. "This whole story will have to come out, and if the facts are known to the police at the start it will come out straight; otherwise there's no telling what the reporters will do with it."

"There is no reason whatever," said Alden, "why Miss Maclane should be brought into this affair."

'A bargain's a bargain," he said. "I was to have the truth. When was the engagement broken off?"

"This afternoon," answered Brenda firmly. "I went down to Mr. Alden's office at half past 1. I had expected to see him last evening, but"-"He didn't come?"

Brenda inclined her head.

"I went to his office," she said, "and in the conversation between us there I released him from his engagement." "That must have been a hard blow for you. Mr. Alden," said the captain. "What do you mean?" demanded Alden. "If you have the delicacy to appreciate my feeling"-

"I was thinking especially about your business," said Neale. "I'm told your firm is in the last ditch, and that your engagement to Duncan Maclane's daughter is about all that holds you up. That's what my man told me just "He told you a lie," said Alden, but with the same monotonous tone, as if his utterance was mechanical and his mind upon another matter. "My affairs were never before so prosperous as they are today."

"That won't do," responded the cap-"You knew nothing about it," said

Alden. "I have other interests than those of my firm." "What other interests?" "I decline to answer." "Where did you go when you left your office after sending that note?" "I will not tell you." "Why not?" queried the captain in his most persuasive tone. "Oh, perout on to the balcony, I've no doubt." "It will make no difference," replied

Alden. "What you say will be confidential, thing like that?" demanded Neale. "I have no wish to offend," said Alden, "but you want the truth, and you shall have it. Your reputation, like that of many another man high up in the department, is bad-as bad as it can be. Remembering that this business matter involves others than myself, I won't trust you with a hint of it. That is my last word on that subject." Neale's face turned red and white in strange, irregular spots. "Now hear a word from me," he said. "I've been looking you up. You are a ruined man. You were engaged to this girl, and it was all that saved you. But you couldn't be honest even with her. You made love to this Elsie

Miller, and you neglected Miss Maclane, and she wouldn't stand for it. But by that time you were so involved with Miss Miller that you couldn't break away. So what did you do? Why, you wrote her a note telling a fairy story about a lot of money, knowing that the note would be found and would make the case look like robbery. You told her how busy you were, and five minutes afterward you quit work and came up town. You had a key to this house; you came here"-

"Do you mean to accuse me of this?" The words came from between Al- clear and clear and clear ien's teeth, and he strode toward Neale, who put the table between them and drew his revolver.

"Wallace!" he called. A policeman entered from the hall. "That man is under arrest," said Neale. "Take him in."

joined the captain. "You go with that man.

you," she said, "and for her." "You're coming along, too," said Neale. "No; I'll stand by what I said. Go home.

Alden opened his mouth to speak and then closed it again. He turned and went out of the room with the policeman, Brenda following immediately and Dr. Blair a moment later. Elmendorf and Neale remained.

The captain dropped into a chair. "I don't know as I done right," he Elmendorf walked across the room and looked at a picture on the wall between the windows. It was a photographic copy of Neierstein's painting of "Tantalus." The unfortunate king who divulged the secrets of Zeus was represented chained to the rock starving while the fruit laden boughs waved just beyond his reach. It was a painful picture, quite out of keeping with all else in the room, and Elmendorf regarded it curiously. A few lines, telling the legend, were printed below, and the detective read them.

"Well, he looks it," he said, glancing up at the face of Tantalus. "And, by the way, Neale, you don't think Alden did this thing, do you?"

"Not on your life!" said the captain. "The case is perfectly plain. It may be that I didn't do the smart thing." Elmendorf turned away. "Arresting a man for murder just be-actly my idea of wisdom." Neale sprang to his feet and faced Elmendorf angrily.

"Not with me, Joe Neale," said the detective. "It won't work." TO BE CONTINUED.

IF PEACE. STATUE EMBLES

Unexpect Friends Called edly-Speech by Judge Sanders. Senator, In Reply, Referred Touch ingly to the Late President.

Cleveland, Jan. 21.-Because of his efforts to bring about more amicable relations between labor and capital and because he was conspicuous in the recent conference in New York be tween a number of prominent capital ists and labor leaders, a hundred or more of his friends in this city thought it fitting to give the senator some reminder of that occasion and its purpose. Accordingly, in Senator Hanna's beautiful home on Lake ave nue, the gentlemen who instigated the movement gathered and arranged that the senator should be present without knowing the purpose of the gathering. The article that will serve as constant reminder of the senator's efforts for a better understanding between abor and capital is a fine statue emblematic of "Peace."

Speech by Judge Sanders.

The presentation was made the oc casion of a speech by Judge Sanders, of the law firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey. The substance of his speech was in part:

The campaign of 1896 was referred to and Senator Hanna was eulogized for his great work therein The public policy of the late President McKinley in regard to the war with Spain was mentioned, and "to you, sir, is due the praise and gratitude of your countrymen for your prominent services in electing such a president and the loyal support and service that you at all times rendered his administra-

Judge Sanders referred to the campaign of 1900, in which Senator Hanna was given credit for equally efficient service as in 1896. Referring to the death of President McKinley, Judge Sanders said:

"In the darkness of last September we know full well the keenness of entire devotion to public duty, heartily and cordially supporting the new administration, and striving as before for all that is noblest and best in naional life.

Senator Hanna's efforts in behalf of he work of the Civic Federation were spoken of and eulogized. His public fe was characterized as honest and his work in the senate as that of a tably interested in all good works.

formally given to the senator.

Senator Hanna was visibly affected when he started to reply to Judge Fifteen Injured In Belfast, by Walls Sanders' speech. The substance of his speech was in part:

He declared that whatever work he ever undertook he had but one purpose in view, the betterment of all the people of his own community and of the country at large. He said that his greatest comfort was to be able to return to his home in this city and be received with kindness by his neighbors, because it inspired him to continue the work that he has been doing.

Regarding the campaign of 1896, Senator Hanna disclaimed any personal credit for what had been accomplished. He said it was only because an emergency was before the country that such an outcome resulted and that the great mass of voters, irrespective of political affiliation, worked to save their country. "At the head of such an army," said Senator Hanna, "any man with the proper en-deavor could have been successful. It needed only the application.'

Continuing, Scnator Hanna said:

Touching Reference to McKinley.

"But in addition I might say above all that we had a leader, and Judge Sanders, in mentioning his name, has touched, as the fountain head of all of 1896, the man whom we had learnabove your personal sorrow, and with ed to love, the man in whom we had unlimited confidence, the man born of the people, who had lived in their who was the natural leader, the one above and beyond all others who could call forth the best elements of society, who could inspire the best thoughts in the public mind, and make it a foregone conclusion that it must be a success. I remember as I looked statesman. As a citizen he was de for the last time on that noble face, and Mr. Underwood, Alabama cold in death, that it seemed to me as if the work was done. It seemed to me as if, in that beautiful death, there had ended for me all ambition. to me the opportunit to think and to remember the princito which he had devoted his life work. and then I knew that my work was only half done; that what might remain to me of life, of energy and ability to execute, should be consecrated that those principles and policies might be perpetuated, and no matter who the means, what the means, he who represented the govrnmat of the United States, who rep resented the future of our great and growing country, demanded at my hands the same loyalty, the same sacrifice, if need be, that this great era of prosperity might be perpetuated while time lasted."

Sherman T. Herbert Announced As a Candidate For Re-Election.

Election Next Sunday-The election A FAITHFUL CITY OFFICIAL

Connected With the Leading Financial Institutions of This City for Years. Began As a Messenger Boy in the Potters' National Bank.

The announcement of Sherman T. Herbert, the present popular and efficient city treasurer, as a candidate for re-election is made today.

There is perhaps no one better known to the people, or one better qualified to handle the financial affairs of the city than "Sherm" Herbert, as he is familiarly known,

From his early boyhood he has been constantly and prominently connected with different financial institutions here in our midst. Beginning as messenger in the Potters' National bank, he was soon promoted, as a reward for his faithful, conscientious labors, to the position of teller, which position he held until the people of our city called him to act as custodian of their funds.

Mr. Herbert has always been prominently identified with the Republican party, and not only has he been a prominent figure in the affairs of the city, but his labors have been extended to the county and state as well. The faithful duties discharged by Mr. Herbert in the past certainly entitles him to ask and expect the vote and support of every Republican in the
